Rewa Marie Fyles' passion for writing has been deep in her heart for many years. Her creative tenacity would not die, as she persevered through college, receiving her BBA in Management. She braved through Corporate America, successfully landing premier positions with reputable firms, all while her desire to be a writer sat patiently waiting.

After an unexpected lay-off, Rewa recognized the opportunity and self-published her first book, Feeling Poetic, A Book of Poetry. The opportunity to share her poetry has been fulfilling, as her poems are close to her heart.

Rewa writes when her heart is full and she is moved to put her heartfelt thoughts and emotions on paper; she looks forward to sharing her second book of poetry. She has read at various poetry venues in and outside of Houston, as well as radio interviews and in-store signings promoting her book.

Currently, Rewa is working on her first novel. Her many writing aspirations include short stories, plays, and screenplays. Rewa's ultimate goal is to be a screenwriter.

Rewa, born and raised in Houston, Texas, is a graduate of the University of Houston-Downtown and a member of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc.
